say nothing of the coolie trade to put there are various other elements of dis turbance which require a strong hand to deal with them. Under ordinary circumstances the San José College question would furnish sufficient food for gossip for some time; but of course at the present moment the pig-selling business is the engrossing subject of attention, and considerable amusement may be derived by the impartial reader from perusing the articles, letters, communications, and official or anonymous notices, &c., which appear upon the subject. The patriotic portion of the pig-purchasers have been driven to the verge of desperation (it's a pity, they don't go beyond it) by suggestions emanating from various quarters that the Chinese should reassume possession of the Holy Peninsula; the "unkindest cut of all" being that the last of these suggestions came directly from Macao itself (one unfortunate individual) by the bye, who for his misdeeds is expiating in durance the result of misspent hours, is reported to have, most innocently, fallen under the suspicion indicting the communication in question and the inability of the authorities discover the real author has greatly exercised their minds). Another, less triotic, but more honest portion of the piggery-keepers openly avow that their sole objection to recent occurrences that they tend to close a source of immense profit; and while the former party will appeal to the patriotic sentiments of Senhor Sergio de Souza, the latter will point out the loss of income to the Government and officials which would day next for a sick member of the troupe. result from the indulgence of "fancied" humanity. Each section uses its own peculiar weapons, and some anonymous been given to the printer's venture thus distributed with the Government organ. Whatever may have been said about Macao, it may be presumed that its officials have not sunk so low as to authorise the issue of a factious document under the nominal patronage of Government. But that such a thing should be done by the printer of the Boletim, demonstrates a curious want of supervision over the "official" press.

It is almost impossible that Senhor

Sergio de Souza should be able to avoid feeling some annoyance at the tone which the British Government, the Portuguese press, and the local journals in China, have taken as regards Macao, but fortunately he holds the power of removing the deadly cancer which has been eating into its very heart, and of restoring the beautiful peninsula to its old position in the estimation of Portugal Great Britain and other countries. The ill-feeling manifested against it, the suggestions that as Portugal could no longer control the abuses perpetrated it had better revert to Chinese dominion than remain the scandal of the far East, took their rise in the apparent indifference manifested to acts committed, palpable in their hideous inhumanity to both China and the civilized world. The absurd ideas propagated by zealous Macaense coolie-dealers, that. Great Britain was " iealous" of Macao, do not need any formal contradiction. As a matter of taste, it is infinitely preferable to us that Macao should remain in Portuguese possession, if that Government will only suppress doings which have rendered the Portuguese name a bye-word in the mouths of the natives of the Southern provinces. Senhor de Souza has a chance afforded him—as had his predecessor of once and for all terminating the scandals of years. And if he avails himself of that chance he will have earned a title to the gratitude of the world far greater than that held by many who are regarded as the philanthropists of the day. He comes well prepared to act if he chooses, his very appointment being it is asserted based upon "Coolie-trade difficulties." What this phrase may mean when rightly interpreted it is not difficult to guess. Should he fulfil the hopes raised, we can predict for him a sympathy and admiration on the part of this Colony as sincere as have been the denunciations levelled against pre-existent facts and former residents in the peninsula. Before concluding it may be well to draw the attention of Senhor Sergio de Souza to the fact that a despatch from Prince Kung, dated 15th March, 1866, declared that "Chinese Emigration from Macao was wholly unauthorized by the Chinese Government;" - a significant fact which may have an important bearing on various matters connected with Macao and those who have abetted the Coolie trade as hitherto conducted.

LOCAL.

THE DRAMATIC COMPANY. With the good opinion already won by this company, and the additions to their strength noticed elsewhere, it is certain that a very enjoyable entertainment will be presented to-night to their supporters. As we have before said, they are well deserving

THE farewell performance of the Great World Circus troupe was given last night to a very large audience As the performance was for the benefit of Miss Gemma and the Masters Ducrow, and also the occasion when the Silver Goblet for the best conundrum was to be presented, this was not to be wondered at. The notable features of the entertainment were Mr Fischer's graceful flights on the Corde Volante, Master Taloot's wheel ascension, the Conundrums, and the comical pranks of the trained mules. Zoyara and the Foxbunter were also especially appreciated by a recall; and Miss Gemma and young Ducrow were well received. As might have been expected, large number of attempts at conundrum. manufacture were made and handed in; but not more than three or four were even tolerable couundrums. A difficulty presented itself as to the appointment of a Committee to decide; various demonstrations were made by the audience to exercise its right of election, but all appeared to decline the admewhat prominent position, and Mr Wilson solved the difficulty by reading over the connidrums, putting those not readable to one side, and then submitting two or three of the best to the opinion of the audience; the sense of which, by the way, had been repeatedly conveyed in groans or applause as the reading proceeded. The prize fell unmistakeably to the following, which was almost the only bona fide joke out of the scores read and left unread:- "Why is Mr Wilson of the Circus, at the conclusion of every evening's performance, a very m human man? Because he engages the artillery to blow the audience out of the tenti he incarcerates all the Mexicans he can capture, and Butchers all his horses." On the winner of the cup coming forward, it was found to be the Sergeant Major (Page) of the Artillery, who was received with a hearty applause which showed that the audience did not the least regret that "the gods (as they themselves said) "bad got it. Mr Wilson, having thanked the inhabitants of Hougkong for their liberal support, intimated that a benefit would be given on Fri-

For twelve months past, right in the face of the United States authorities, thousands of serviceable uniforms have been received at the Fenian head quarters in Fourth street, and being first assorted there, have been boxed up and sent by express to the innumerable Circles of the Brotherhood. There are about eleven thousand regular troops in the Dominion at present, and it will 7 | be impossible to put more than seven thousand of these in the field for concentration. The British officers who command these troops are experienced gentlemen, and for the pride of their race will fight hard; but the Fenians believe that they are so tied down by red tape that it will be irrpossible for them to do anything out of the routine manner. The Fenians assert that a thousand miles of frontier cannot be guarded by eight thousand regular trops, and that militia cannot be depended upon to stand an arduous campaign such as the Fenians intend to make. The organization and equip-

THE COMING ECLIPSE. To those who would wish to view this rare phenomenou with an enquiring spirit we address a few suggestions, condensed from a series that were circulated by the Astronomer Royal previous to the celebrated Eclipse of 1858 :-

I.—Observations not requiring Instruments. 1.—As the eclipse advances it is desirable to obtain some notion or measure of the degree of darkness. 2.—At what distance from the eye can a book or paper be read? 3.—Rold a lighted candle nearly between the Sun and your eye. At how many Sun's breadth's distance from the Sun can the flame be seen ?

4.—If you are in an elevated position remark the changes of color and appearance of the surrounding objects in the landscape.

II.—Observations with Instruments. 1.—As the eclipse advances, estimate (on the image seen in the telescope) the comparative intensity of the Sun's light near the centre of his disc and near his limb: it is desirable that the power of your telescope should be so low as to give a view of the whole of the Sun.

2.—Remark irregularities on the Moon's mark whether they are irregular.

Note.—In the eclipse of July 1858 it was noticed that one of the horns of the solar crescent appeared round and truncated, while the other was contracted nearly to a point, with a luminous patch beyond it. 4.—Remark whether the Sun's light 10 Tical Bau, (pure silver) } extends beyond the intersection of the | 1 ,, Copper, limbs of the Sun and Moon, so as to make the Moon's limb visible beyond that inter-

5.—As the totality approaches and as it breaks up, look for Baily's Beads whether formed at points corresponding to large inequalities of the Moon's limb, and how they form and break,

6.—Remark, as one of the most important observations, whether any "red flames" are seen on the Sun.
